
EDITORS

Janice J Eng, PhD, BSc (PT/OT), is Professor, School of Rehabilitation Sciences, University of BC, GF Strong Rehab Centre and ICORD (Vancouver, Canada). Her program in neurological rehabilitation spans mechanistic research, clinical trials to knowledge translation. She is a Canadian Institutes of Health Research Scholar and Michael Smith Scholar.

Robert Teasell, MD, FRCPC is Professor/Chair/Chief of the Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at the University of Western Ontario and Parkwood Hospital (SJHC). Dr. Teasell's research interests are in evidence-based applications to clinical rehabilitation practice with a specific interest in neurorehabilitation, and chronic pain, particularly the role of personality in coping with pain.

William C Miller, PhD, OT, is Associate Professor, School of Rehabilitation Sciences, University of BC and ICORD faculty. An epidemiologist by background, his expertise is in the area of measurement and examination of mobility limitations and daily occupations across diagnoses in older adults. He is a Canadian Institutes of Health Research Scholar.

Dalton Wolfe, PhD is an Associate Scientist in the Program of Aging, Rehabilitation and Geriatric Care in the Lawson Health Research Institute, London, ON, Canada. Dr. Wolfe has a background in clinical neurophysiology and research methods. His current research interests are in the areas of health promotion and FES-assisted exercise for people with SCI.

Andrea F Townson, MD, FRCPC is Clinical Assistant Professor in the Division of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, University of British Columbia and ICORD. She is Medical Manager, SCI Rehab Program at GF Strong Rehab Centre. Research interests include high lesion spinal cord injuries, ventilator dependency, fatigue and outcome measures.

Jo-Anne Aubut, BA is a research assistant in the Department of Physical Medicine & Rehabilitation located at Parkwood Hospital. She has worked on a variety of research projects through the University of Western Ontario and the Lawson Health Research Institute in London, ON.

Caroline Abramson, MA, is the Clinical Research Coordinator for the Division of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation. She works with physiatrists and residents on a variety of research projects through the University of British Columbia and GF Strong Rehab Centre.

Jane Hsieh, MSc, has over 15 years in clinical research in both the academic and biotechnology industry settings. Previously as the senior director of Clinical Program at AcordaTherapeutics, she oversaw a variety of phase 1, 2 & 3 studies mainly in SCI and MS populations. Her current activities include consultation to both academic and industrial research groups.

Sandra Connolly, BHScOT(C), OTReg. (Ont.) is an occupational therapist in the Spinal Cord Injury Rehabilitation Program at Parkwood Hospital, St. Joseph's Health Care London.